MONTHLY ACTIVITIES REPORT

May - June 2016

The following report of monthly activities of the Capital Defense Counsel Division of the State Public Defender is submitted in accordance with Miss. Code § 99-18-15. Attached to this Report is a docket of potential death penalty eligible cases in the circuit courts and rosters of all death penalty cases. Also attached is a spreadsheet showing statewide trial level caseload for FY 05-15.

Purpose & Mission

Capital Defense was established by the state legislature to assist in trial and direct appeal of death eligible and death penalty cases in the state courts of Mississippi. Capital Defense strives to provide high quality legal representation to indigent clients consistent with the American Bar Association Guidelines for the Appointment and Performance of Defense Counsel in Death Penalty Cases.

Budget & Staffing

Capital Defense has 8 fulltime employees, down from 11 at the time of the creation of the OSPD (2011). The attorney, investigator and mitigation specialist positions were not funded for FY 2017. SB 2362 makes the Office of State Public Defender a general fund agency effective July 1, 2016. On June 30, 2016, the Capital Defense Fund, established by §99-18-17(2), will be abolished and the balance transferred to the State General Fund. This raises questions about the authority to continue the conflicts program. That program will be suspended until these issues can be resolved. Existing contracts are being honored by the State Defender but new contracts are not being entered into. Capital Defense is currently staffed to handle a mix of 10-15 new trial level cases per year and/or 3 new appeals per year. This assumes local counsel will be appointed.

Caseload

Capital Defense is currently representing 19 clients at the trial level. Two of these cases do not have local counsel and one has a separate homicide cases pending in another county that we are also representing him on. Capital Defense is representing five clients at the appeal level. A Petition for Writ of Certiorari was granted, and case reversed and remanded by the Supreme Court of the United States in June. These five people are all of the direct appeal cases in Mississippi.

Across the state, there are 98 people with potential death eligible charges pending in circuit court. Eighteen are represented by retained or pro bono counsel. Counsel status is unknown in three cases. Seventy-nine are represented by appointed counsel.

Of the 79 people with appointed counsel, 19 are represented by Capital Defense and four are represented by contract private counsel through the State Defender due to conflicts of interest with Capital Defense. It is believed that the prosecution is not pursuing the death penalty in most of the remaining cases but they remain on the docket until this is confirmed. However, it is believed that at least five cases involve the death penalty.

CAPITAL DEFENSE COUNSEL

A Division of the Office of State Public Defender

André de Gruy
Capital Defender

The local public defender has chosen to represent one client without State Defender direct assistance. Public defenders have requested assistance in the other four cases. None of these cases can be handled by Capital Defense at this time.

Activities

The office continues to provide technical assistance to attorneys handling cases for juvenile offenders facing life without parole sentences (JLWOP) through the Juvenile Parole Resource Counsel project funded through a grant from the Vital Projects Fund in cooperation with SPLC. As an addendum to this report we are attaching an overview of the effect of JLWOP on indigent defense. We are also working on HB 585 implementation and assisting with the development of a mental health cases resource project and defender data project.

Juvenile Life without Parole (JLWOP) – the effect of Miller v. Alabama on the delivery of indigent defense services in Mississippi. (May 2016)

Background

In 2005 the Supreme Court of the United States held that sentencing a person to death for a crime that occurred prior to their 18th birthday violated the federal constitution. Roper v. Simmons, 543 U.S. 551 (2005). In 2010 the Court held sentencing juvenile offenders to life without parole (JLWOP) for non-homicide offenses violated the federal constitution. Graham v. Florida, 560 U.S. 48, 130 S.Ct. 2011 (2010).

In June 2012 the Court held that automatic life without parole sentences for juvenile offenders convicted of homicide offenses violated the federal constitution. Miller v. Alabama, 132 S.Ct. 2455 (2012).

In June 2013 the Mississippi Supreme Court recognized that under Mississippi's parole law enacted in 1994 and 1995, all life sentences are without parole. Parker v. State, 119 So.3d 987 (Miss. 2013). Thus the Parker Court held that Miller requires individual determinations of parole eligibility in all capital murder and murder cases before a life sentence without parole can be imposed. Parker applies to all juvenile offenders serving a life sentence at the time Miller was decided as well as all juvenile offenders convicted since. Jones v. State, 122 So3d 698 (Miss. 2013).

In light of these decisions every juvenile homicide offender is now entitled to a sentencing or resentencing hearing and entitled to counsel for that hearing. See Perryman v. State, 120 So.3d 1048 (Miss. Ct. App. 2013). Because life without parole is the equivalent of a death sentence when imposed on a juvenile offender, see Miller, equivalent procedures must be in place to ensure the defendant's constitutional rights are protected. Dycus v. State, No. 2012-M-02041-SCT (Order vacating sentence and remanding for new sentencing hearing before a jury pursuant to Miss. Code § 99-19-101) (Sept. 17, 2014).

This will require mitigation investigation and presentation including the use of experts, particularly in the field of child development. See Davis v. State, 87 So.3d 465 (Miss. 2012) (death sentence vacated where counsel failed to investigate and present mitigation).

Because these juvenile homicide cases are not "death penalty eligible offenses" Capital Defense Counsel cannot provide direct representation. Miss. Code § 99-18-5. However, under the State Defender's authority to utilize employees of one division in another division, Capital Defense has assisted the Public Defender Training Division in providing training and technical assistance to public defenders and volunteer counsel handling JLWOP cases. This assistance has been enhanced by a partnership with the Mississippi Office of the Southern Poverty Law Center in which OSPD is housing the JLWOP Resource Counsel funded through SPLC with a grant from the Vital Projects Fund. This limited assistance benefits the local defenders and counties but falls far short of ensuring they can meet the new constitutional mandate. This development increases the need for comprehensive indigent defense reform in Mississippi.

Scope of the Problem

Eighty-seven people¹ in Mississippi were sentenced to automatic life without parole sentences for crimes occurring when they were juveniles (JLWOP sentences). Four were on direct appeal when Miller was decided and 83 have since filed post-conviction motions raising Miller claims.

Of the four cases on direct appeal when Miller was decided, two had their convictions reversed and two had the JLWOP sentence vacated. In one of the two reversals the defendant was acquitted on retrial and the other plead to a reduced charge of manslaughter. One person whose sentence was vacated, Lester Parker, has been resentenced to life with parole. The second is pending resentencing.

The JLWOP sentence has been vacated in 49 of the 85 post-conviction cases. Eighteen people have been resentenced to life with parole. Five resentenced to LWOP. Twenty-six are before the trial court pending resentencing. The remaining 36 post-conviction cases are pending before a circuit court on Motion to Vacate.

There were 16 potential JLWOP cases pending pre-trial when Miller was decided. Two were sentenced to automatic JLWOP before Parker was decided and are counted in the 85 post-conviction cases noted above. One has since been sentenced to JLWOP for murder. The others have been convicted of lesser charges or had charges dismissed.

Fifty-nine new JLWOP eligible cases have been filed since July 1, 2012. Thirty-seven of these cases remain open. Of the 22 closed cases one person was sentenced to JLWOP bringing the total LWOP sentences post-Parker to seven.

It is anticipated that there will be 15 new potential JLWOP cases indicted each year with most needing appointed counsel. In addition it is anticipated that the local public defenders will be expected to handle the bulk of the post-conviction cases still pending in post-conviction when resentencing is ordered. The total number of potential cases today is 100.

The Bottom Line

Even the most conservative estimate of the cost to counties to provide constitutionally adequate counsel, investigators and experts in the pending cases would be in the millions. Assuming pro bono or retained counsel handle 25%, the counties will have to provide the cost in about 75 cases, some almost 20 years old. Based on the average costs of death penalty cases (approximately $75,000/case) it would cost the counties over $5,500,000 to handle the backlog and an additional $850,000/year to handle future cases. This cost does not include the cost of empaneling juries.²

¹ Two people have two sentences imposed in separate cases so the total number of cases is 89.

² See Vicksburg Post Editorial, April 1, 2015, regarding retrial of Vega case.
